

NO ONE WILL RIDE PINTO BUT DAINTY, DARING CLARA

Miss Williams is Lubin Leading Lady.

By Gertrude M. Price.

No one ever rides "Appelucia" except Clara Williams. There are more reasons than one if the truth were told for this state of affairs. But the main and important reason is that no one else dares try. "Appelucia" is a wonderfully intelligent pinto purchased especially for Miss Williams.

She, you know, is the perfect rider, who can beat the boys at anything on a horse, whose professional title is "leading lady, Lubin Company."

Clara Williams is one of the surprising people one meets in the theatrical world, giving the lie to the statement that the footlights spoil humanity's freshness of manner and naturalness.

She's just like a girl off the western plains so far as frankness and ease and unspoiledness go.

And fortunately for those who have the pleasure to be among her acquaintances, she has, added to this, a very taking personality. Her dark hair is the curly sort which doesn't need irons and a hairdresser and an hour's hard work to beautify. It's the ringlet kind.

Her skin is fair and has the deep,
